been involved in a mishap, with one of the cars almost being hit again (center) by a sliding auto that hit the curb trying to stop as still another car (at right center photo), southbound on Middlebelt, slides through a red light. Our photographer decided to depart the scene when a station wagon (bottom photo) also skidded through a red light, coming to a stop not too far from his car.

City may get more patrols

By JIM CARAVALLAH

The Romulus City Council was expected to approve an administration plan calling for a third unit of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department to patrol the city.

"The council will pass a resolution to put on one more unit until the end of the fiscal year," said Councilman James Stewart.

"The plan is to add one unit now, until July 1, and to think about adding a second unit afterwards, if we can find the money."

Stewart said the decision to add the third unit, one car to patrol the community 24-hours a day, seven days a week, was reached at an executive session late last week. Attending the session, along with Stewart, were Councilmen William Oakley, Fred Block and Brooker Edwards.

Cost of the project will be $51,000 until the end of the fiscal year. Cost of adding the unit for a full year is expected to be $207,000.

Stewart speculates that the unit can be added without tax increases. The $51,000 for the unit until the end of the fiscal year can be obtained from the contingencies portion of the general fund, while the $207,000 for the next year can be obtained from revenue sharing funds for fiscal 1973-74.

Romulus expects approximately $240,000 in revenue sharing for fiscal 1973-1974.

At the same session, the council directed the finance director to research a means to provide a fourth unit for the city during the coming fiscal year. Stewart did not indicate how the city would finance the additional unit next year, but did indicate that there would be no raise in taxes.

"We can cut one area to provide more police protection," he explained.

"We've got to have the protection, because of the high crime rate in this city," Stewart said. "I'm sure the rest of the council will pass it."

Mayor Hyle Carmichael revealed plans to request an additional unit of the sheriff's department for the city several weeks ago.

"I can't announce it, but we're going to ask them for more police," he said at the time. "I don't think they'll turn it down."

City Clerk Leonard Folmar said that he did not expect an increase in taxes to finance the additional unit.

"The council didn't indicate that it would use all of the revenue sharing funds for this additional protection," he said, "but if requests in the budget for this year don't equal those of last year, there's a chance the council won't have to raise taxes." Should a tax increase be required to meet the cost of additional police protection, residents of Romulus could see their 5.5 city millage raised by as much as two. One mill raises nearly $200,000.

Area girl has POW bracelet

A Romulus girl who works at the Belvil Community Hospital has the bracelet of the first POW who recently stepped off the plane in the Philippines.

She is Miss Debbie Bittenbender, 19, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bittenbender, 37737 Walnut Dr. "I am very happy for him and I must write and congratulate him upon his release and return to the United States from a Hanoi POW camp," Miss Debbie Bittenbender said. She has the bracelet of Capt. Jeremiah Denton Jr., 40, of Virginia Beach, Fla.

Debbie has been wearing the POW bracelet since September when the bracelet arrived from California.

Debbie, who is employed as a nurse's aide and EKG technician at the hospital, said: "I mailed a request for a POW bracelet last year and

"A 'TREASURED' POW BRACELET — Bittenbender, 19, a nurse's aide at Belvil Hospital, displays her 'treasured' POW bracelet of Capt. Jeremiah A. Denton Jr., the first man to step from the plane which flew the first 115 American POWs from Hanoi to Clark Air Base in the Philippines. Debbie, who lives at 37727 Walnut Dr., Romulus, received her POW bracelet in September.

3 city employees face federal ax

Three Romulus city employees facing the federal government ax when Public Employment Program (PEP) funds run out, can breathe a sigh of relief, if Councilman James Stewart has his way. Everybody that's employed by the city will stay on, whether the funds run out or not," said Stewart.

The federal government forwarded money to the county, which in turn sent it to the cities, to hire additional public employees, with the hope that such employees would be kept on the city's payroll.

If the Romulus City Council's word is as good as Stewart's, then Romulus has met the federal government's goal.

County commissioners set 2 hearings

Two public hearings have been scheduled by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to review and solicit reaction to major administrative changes being contemplated for Wayne County General Hospital.

The first hearing is set for Monday, 6:30 p.m. in Gruber Auditorium on the hospital grounds in Westland. The second is planned for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the 13th floor auditorium of the City-County Building, downtown Detroit.

Both hearings will be conducted by the commissioner's Human Resources Committee, chaired by Paul Silver.

Silver said the hearings will concentrate on one of nine resolutions drawn up to implement recommendations of a special hospital task force which has been evaluating Wayne County General since June.

The Human Resources Committee already has adopted eight of the resolutions and will ask the full board to approve them at tomorrow's scheduled meeting, said Silver.

The unadopted ninth resolution would authorize development of a contract between the hospital and the University of Michigan to facilitate teaching and research.

According to Silver, it deserves a public hearing because "We recognize that teaching and research are essential for continued high-quality medical care, and we want the benefit of public views before entering into another contractual relationship."

Presently the hospital maintains an affiliation agreement with the university, which provides staff for the hospital, but "this agreement needs to be clarified and needs to follow the American Association of Medical Colleges standards for affiliation," reads the resolution.

If adopted, the resolution would authorize a contract under which the University would assume all teaching costs at the hospital and share jointly in the costs of salaries for medical personnel.

"Not only will a public hearing acquaint the public with the ramifications involved, it will also provide our committee with welcome guidance before we act on the matter," added Silver.

Silver also is a member of the hospital task force, which was created by the commissioners last May. Recommendations of the group call for wide expansion of outpatient services and extensive changes in administrative procedures.

Incumbents win PCHA board vote

By LUCY WIESEND

The Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) Board of Directors last week had an easier time electing officers than was expected.

It was a clean sweep for the incumbents — four administrators, a pro-administration member-at-large and two executive committee members.

Donald J. Pizzimenti of Allen Park, chairman for the past seven years, was unanimously re-elected as head of the board.

In a surprise move, William G. Gagnon, a board member-at-large who nominated himself as chairman, withdrew his name from the race.

After the meeting the Ypsilanti Township supervisor said he withdrew because he saw the way things (the election) were going.

Romulus '5' draws Taylor Kennedy

Romulus High will launch its defense of the Class A district basketball title Monday night at home, but you can't help thinking that Coach Dave Court is looking ahead.

Monday the Eagles will take on Taylor Kennedy at 7:30 p.m. and the survivor of the contest will advance into the semi-finals where it will meet Allen Park.

It was Allen Park which derailed Romulus last year in the regional finals at Belleville after Coach Dave Court's Eagles ousted a highly-touted Ann Arbor Pioneer quintet.

"I'm pleased with the draw," said Court, whose team is presently sporting a 16-2 record. Taylor Kennedy and Allen Park are the best two teams in the district aside from ourselves, and they also are champs of their respective leagues.

"Therefore, as an independent, we will be able to see how we would have fared if we were in those leagues," Court said.

Kennedy isn't as yet the champ. The Taylor quintet must beat Southgate Schafer Friday night to capture the title. However, Allen Park did sew up the Suburban 8 Conference championship last week.

Both teams are presently 15-3 on the season.

In Washington

Educators attend money seminar

Recently a group of 65 educators representing all regions of Michigan traveled to Washington, D.C. on a task assignment.

The group, called the Michigan Association of State and Federal Program Specialists, attended a three-day seminar to hear and speak to members of congress and representatives from the office of education.

The purpose of the work session was to learn where the local schools stand in receiving federal dollars for administering programs (Title I, II, III, vocational, special education, etc.) in the school districts.

Those who attended the various scheduled sessions were somewhat disappointed to learn there is a rather distinct division between the members of congress and those who represent the administration's viewpoint in dispersing federal money for educational programs, said Luke Wegienka, assistant superintendent of Huron Community School District.

President Nixon and the Office of Education are trying hard to sell congress in accepting his educational revenue sharing plan, Wegienka added.

Members of congress who appeared at the seminar were Congressmen William D. Ford, John Dingell, Martha Griffiths, Donald Riegle Jr. and James O'Hara, have strongly indicated they are not about to buy his plan unless some changes are made in the funding process.

Seminar participants heard from the office of education that "comparability" will be required of all schools seeking federal funds. Dr. John Staley, assistant director of compensatory programs, said: "Comparability reporting establishes a base for future funding," federal audit is still in effect and will continue. The administration is strongly suggesting each state develop their own plan and wants to see more public participation in the developing on the plan, Wegienka said. The timetable for legislation regarding federal funding for programs will not be on the books for September. They see where the existing programs will be extended for one more year as the result of the continuing resolution, he added.

If the educational revenue sharing plan is approved, states can decide to shift money up to 30 per cent from any one of the five board categories except from the disadvantaged programs. This would mean a possible loss of 90 per cent from some of the programs over a period of three years if the state wishes to take that position, Wegienka said this needs special attention from the educators.

The concept of educational revenue sharing is to consolidate some 33 federal educational programs into five broad categories: 1) disadvantaged (compensatory), 2) impacted aid, 3) vocational, 4) handicapped, and 5) supportive services (general support).

Wegienka said a great deal of emphasis has been placed on public interest at home.

"Congressmen are indeed very much interested in learning how the people back home feel," he added. "It is strongly recommended by our state association to keep our parents informed of the direction in which federal money will be spent on what programs."

From the cold

Pets need protection

Like their owners, pets need added protection from the cold during the winter months, and some pet owners need to be reminded of the fact, said the Animal Protection Institute (API). The institute is a national humane organization based in Sacramento, Calif.

Some pets are left outside, chained or in cages, exposed to the elements without adequate shelter or access to food or water.

Whether your pet spends his winter indoors or out, API urges pet owners to consider the following:

-Your pet needs a shelter that is warm, well-ventilated, waterproof and free from drafts. If the shelter is outdoors, it should face south to lessen the effects of west and north winds and have a protective covering over the entrance.

-Bedding should be warm and dry, preferably elevated to protect against cold floors or ground (again, if shelter is outdoors added protection is needed). Hay or straw, which provides good insulation, can be used for outdoor shelters.

-An adequate diet and a supply of fresh water are year-round considerations but especially so in winter. In areas of extreme cold if left outside, food and water can become frozen in a short amount of time. In these extreme cold conditions, metal containers should not be used.

-Regular, daily exercise is a good preventive measure against illness in winter and helps to build your pet's resistance to colds and infections.

As an added note, the institute suggests that winter can be an especially hard time for birds in areas where the ground is frozen or covered by snow.

Offensive tackle becomes teacher

A former offensive tackle on the Dallas Cowboys is a math and science teacher at the North Junior High School in Belleville.

Jerry Lutri was graduated from Northern Michigan University in 1969 and was drafted by the Dallas Cowboys. He played with the team for one year and then began his teaching and coaching career.

He taught in the Detroit public schools and then was assistant football coach at Eastern Michigan University from 1971-72.

Lutri, who is six-foot six-inches tall and weighs 270 pounds, joined the Van Buren public school system in the fall of 1972 as assistant football coach and as a teacher at the North Junior High School. The former pro-football

County set 2 public hearings

Two public hearings have been scheduled by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners to review and solicit reaction to major administrative changes being contemplated for Wayne County General Hospital.

The first hearing is set for Monday, 6:30 p.m. in Gruber Auditorium on the hospital grounds in Westland. The second is planned for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the 13th floor auditorium of the City-County Building, downtown Detroit.

Both hearings will be conducted by the commissioner's Human Resources Committee, chaired by Paul Silver.

Silver said the hearings will concentrate on one of nine resolutions drawn up to implement recommendations of a special hospital task force which has been evaluating Wayne County General since June.

The Human Resources Committee already has adopted eight of the resolutions and will ask the full board to approve them at tomorrow's scheduled meeting, said Silver.

The unadopted ninth resolution would authorize development of a contract between the hospital and the University of Michigan to facilitate teaching and research.

According to Silver, it deserves a public hearing because "We recognize that teaching and research are essential for continued high-quality medical care, and we want the benefit of public views before entering into another contractual relationship."

Presently the hospital maintains an affiliation agreement with the university, which provides staff for the hospital, but "this agreement needs to be clarified and needs to follow the American Association of Medical Colleges standards for affiliation," reads the resolution.

If adopted, the resolution would authorize a contract under which the University would assume all teaching costs at the hospital and share jointly in the costs of salaries for medical personnel.

"Not only will a public hearing acquaint the public with the ramifications involved, it will also provide our committee with welcome guidance before we act on the matter," added Silver.

Silver also is a member of the hospital task force, which was created by the commissioners last May. Recommendations of the group call for wide expansion of outpatient services and extensive changes in administrative procedures.

Entry deposit hiked

The Board of Directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) last week increased the deposit requirement for patients without insurance.

Patients who do not have insurance are required to put down a deposit before they are admitted into the hospital.

Because of the Jan. 28 increase in hospital rates at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and the three other PCHA hospitals, the PCHA board's Operating Committee recommended that the board increase deposit rates.

Maternity cases entering the hospital without insurance must put down an additional $130. The old deposit was $620, up now to $750.

Medical and surgical patients will be putting down $135 for each day of their expected stay in the hospital. The deposit is up $25 from the previously required $110.

The pediatric deposit is also up $25, from $260 to $285.

land use, plans and policies," Bennett said.

"In that way we can respond jointly and intelligently to the deadlines set by state and federal laws rather than hastily."

The goals of the development strategies phase of the comprehensive planning process (as detailed at the meeting) are: 1-population projections for Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) area; 2-projected land use from local master zoning plans; 3-projected population from land use master zoning plans; 4-population characteristics and 6-school districts.

Planners give rezoning okay

The Van Buren Township Planning Commission recommended a rezoning of a 2.12-acre land parcel located on the South Service Drive of the I-94 Expressway, east of Belleville Road.

The rezoning recommendation is from residential to multiple dwelling.

Ray Suliman, 13055 Lakeview Dr., Belleville, requested the rezoning to conform with the zoning around his parcel which is multiple.

At a recent public hearing on the rezoning request there was no objections filed.

By LUCY WIESEND

An unsuccessful attempt was made last week to discuss the discreditation of Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park by some board members of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA).

The board members were disturbed by the recent loss of accreditation by the Joint Commission of Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), a national voluntary accreditation organization.

They also were disturbed because PCHA board members were not informed of the loss until last Thursday and the JCAH's reasons for withdrawal of accreditation were not disclosed to the board.

In a roll-call vote of 33-10, the board decided to delay discussion of the hospital situation until Thursday when a special board meeting will be held.

Board Chairman Donald J. Pizzimenti said an appeal hearing will be held Tuesday with JCAH in Chicago. He said that after the meeting the Outer Drive Hospital situation would be better understood.

Pizzimenti had said that the deficiencies listed by the report include "nothing that I feel is of a major nature, and I'm sure that when we show the JCAH that we have complied with its wishes, Outer Drive's accreditation will be restored."

"JCAH is important to us for a prestige standpoint," the chairman said. "It is a voluntary organization. The discreditation in no way affects Blue Cross payments."

Blue Cross officials said the hospital will be put on a six-month notice of contract termination following the March 15 meeting of the Blue Cross Commission on Hospital Qualifications.

At the end of the six months, Outer Drive may receive a six-month temporary contract if Blue Cross is satisfied the hospital is trying to correct its deficiencies.

The deficiencies cited by JCAH include improper record keeping, lack of a formal plan for nursing services and physical (building) deficiencies.

"I would like to stress that the JCAH's action has nothing to do with the quality of patient care or the competency of the staff at Outer Drive," Pizzimenti said.

He said the JCAH report, dated Feb. 2, arrived at Outer Drive Hospital Feb. 8. The board was informed of the discreditation Feb. 15 at a PCHA Operating Committee meeting.

Aside from JCAH, Dr. Karl S. Klicka, PCHA's executive director, some of the staff and the administrator at Outer Drive and Pizzimenti are the only ones who have read the 6-or-7-page report from the commission.

The joint commission is composed of representatives

Van Buren planners set hearing

A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. March 14 before the Van Buren Township Planning Commission on a proposed amendment to the township's zoning ordinance.

A rezoning petition filed by the Congress Land Co., 17600 W. Eight Mile Rd., Southfield, will be the subject matter at the public hearing. This is the second public hearing on the rezoning request, which is being called by the commission to procure additional information.

The firm is seeking the rezoning of two separate land parcels totaling 3.5 acres and located on the north and south sides of the I-94 Expressway Service Drive on the west side of Haggerty Road.

The land parcels presently are zoned residential. A change to general business for the construction of a proposed gas station and restaurant is sought.

of the American Hospital Association, the American Medical Association, the American College of Physicians and the American College of Surgeons.

It inspects hospitals every two or three years. Outer Drive was surveyed and given full accreditation for a three-year period in 1969, according to Pizzimenti.

Full accreditation means that a hospital is rated as "first class" in all respects.

The JCAH recently went through a process of upgrading its standards for accreditation qualification.

Board members were told that of the other PCHA facilities Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti has been given a clean bill of health by JCAH. Reports on Annapolis in Wayne and Seaway in Trenton have not been submitted by the accreditation commission.

Last year Pizzimenti was re-elected by a four-vote margin, again beating Gagnon for the post.

Also re-elected were Marlett D. Inman of Dearborn Heights as vice chairman; Hiram McNeely, former 10-year veteran of the State House of Representatives who represents Inkster, as secretary, and Roger J. Remer of Flat Rock as treasurer.

Aside from nominating himself, Gagnon nominated Roy A. Berger as member-at-large; Milton O. Powers of Taylor as vice chairman; Roland W. Arnold of Southgate as treasurer; Thomas Turner of Detroit as secretary and James R. Cunningham of Allen Park and David L. Nelson of Dearborn Heights as members of the executive committee.

Remer and McNeely won their posts by acclamation. When contacted by Wayne Mayor Pat Norton, who is a board member and chairman of the nominating committee, Turner declined.

On the other hand, Arnold did not indicate an acceptance nor did he decline the nomination," according to Norton.

McNeely is serving his fifth year as board secretary. The secretary's position is the only one which could go to a non-member of the PCHA Board of Directors.

The member-at-large seat of Alfred M. Lennon D.O. of Dearborn Heights, was the only one up for election. He beat out Berger for the position by a 24-12 margin.

Forty-three of the board's 46 members attended the meeting last night. The board's members-at-large are not eligible to vote in the member-at-large election.

Two seats on the board's executive committee also were filled last night. Incumbents Dale D. Hoover of Westland and Harold F. LaVassaur of Trenton beat out Cunningham and Nelson. The vote went 26 each for Hoover and LaVassaur, 21 for Cunningham and 11 for Nelson.

The three-member executive committee, which also includes Pizzimenti, is responsible for serving when the board does not function, such as during the summer months and in emergencies.

Unanimously elected to the board's advisory committee were doctors P.J. Wicht, D.J. Largo, F.B. Taylor, G.J. Strachnov, J.W. Hillyer, M.S. Sandhu, H.L. Mulero and S.H. Kobiljak.

School of hard knocks earns some credit

By DON HOENSHELL, Lansing Bureau Chief

Educators have discovered that the school of hard knocks can sometimes do it better than sitting for 12 years in a classroom.

Now they know the street can be an academia superior in some ways to four years of high school.

But a society which insists that something be handy to hang on the wall to attest to a trained mind created a demand for the General Education Development (GED) test.

"The GED is based on what is normal achievement for a high school graduate," said Joseph T. Hudson, state administrator of the program.

"A lot of high school graduates couldn't pass the GED test. It's not unusual at all for a holder of a high school equivalency certificate to be recruited by colleges and universities."

There are those academic elitists who consider an equivalency certificate to be not quite as good as a high school diploma, that it's a kind of educational cop-out for losers.

Not so, said Hudson.

Federal standards require a score of 35 on each of five achievement areas, but Michigan, because of higher-than-average educational requirements, insists on a score of 45.

"If a person scores 60 on the federal standard, Michigan State University and others perceive him as having unusual qualifications for college," he said.

General Motors, in its last contract with UAW, required employees to take the GED test if there is any question about their educational qualifications for promotion.

Research studies over the years have shown that holders of GED certificates "do as well or better than high school graduates," Hudson said.

"We're very fussy about the program. If a person learns, we don't care where. Learning takes place outside the four walls of a classroom."

The program was established, first at the local level, for those who for some reason were unable to complete high school. Hudson believes the certificate is as good or better than a diploma.

It represents a special effort by people who need it and are willing to work for it. And, unlike a diploma in some cases, it means that a person has realized his responsibility to society and to himself.

"We do not require that the taker of a GED test attain any grade level," Hudson said. "Grade levels don't mean much. They just mean that a child has sat in a classroom a certain number of years."

Those who apply are tested in five areas - effectiveness of expression (reading, writing, literacy), social studies, the natural sciences, literature, and general mathematics.

Hudson, who works with Dr. Mary T. Rogers, director of adult continuing education services, refuses to put the rap on the K-12 program of education.

But he insists that a tested level of education be society's criteria, not necessarily a high school diploma.

The state board of education has issued more than 21,000 high school certificates in the last four years to those who passed the GED test, 7,784 of them in 1972.

Dr. John W. Porter, superintendent of public instruction, said the certificates are now widely accepted by business, industry, government and community colleges.

"Many of the men and women who obtained their diploma under the state board's program would not have been able to get a job without a high school certificate," he said.

"For many others, it meant the difference between getting a promotion and not getting it."

But our program has only scratched the surface. Based on the 1970 census, there are more than 1.2 million adults in Michigan who do not have a high school diploma (or certificate).

At the moment, he estimates 117,000 are participating in high school completion programs at 136 locations - mostly in urban areas - throughout the state.

Another opinion

For state's judiciary, it's time of discontent

For certain segments of the Michigan judiciary, this is truly the winter of their discontent.

Ironically, indeed, it is that its troubles should surface last week while the nation observes Crime Prevention Week, although that is only coincidental but still pertinent to the problems at hand.

Last week we witnessed a State Supreme Court justice serving as a mediator between disputants in Detroit Recorder's Court and the Detroit Police Department. This inner-city criminal court appears embroiled with lawyers and hot-headed judges in a manner which indicates decorum and dignity have disappeared.

At least one controversial judge of this court has made imprudent and highly unjustified decisions involving the role of the city police in the illicit narcotics traffic. Another is charged with a derogatory remark about counsel for police officers.

One espoused a one-man grand jury to get to the bottom of the narcotics hierarchy, a problem so difficult that even the strenuous efforts of Federal investigators are often unavailing.

The Wayne County prosecutor, William L. Cahalan, told a seminar of the National College of District Attorneys that nothing less than uniform, mandatory sentences for lawbreakers, without a chance of parole or probation, would make any inroad in reversing the serious crime trend in this country.

Cahalan would have the legislatures of the several states fix absolute prison sentences as a deterrent to crime.

While we must question Cahalan's premise that potential offenders would be deterred from crime when we saw equal sentences mandated and carried out for all criminals, we must approve his suggestion that it would be much better than the present system.

Now, as he said, the criminal has little fear if caught and convicted that he will serve his sentence.

Not all the troubles that beset our courts are the fault of judges who try to cope with top-heavy dockets. But internal wrangling such as that in Detroit Recorder's Court can be attributed to some extent to the archaic, ridiculous and hypocritical manner in which judicial candidates run with partisan backing and then must assume the equally hypocritical stance of a nonpartisan justice.

The qualified, scholarly lawyers have no chance of gaining the bench where they would perform great service under such conditions.

The unequal manner in which criminals are dealt with in today's courtrooms, of which Prosecutor Cahalan spoke last week, were dealt with in a different way. Circuit Court Judge Victor J. Baum of Wayne County attacked the present system by which defendants are permitted to plead guilty to a lesser charge.

Judge Baum, whom we have lauded in these columns for opposing judge-candidate's "testimonial parties," has carried his fight for an end to indiscriminate "plea bargaining" to the state legislature.

He wants this pernicious system whereby defendant and prosecutor strike a deal, in a conference of attorneys, to plead the defendant guilty to a lesser charge.

True, expense is saved, and the case is cleared from the docket. But, as Cahalan pointed out, justice is not done under such a system. The punishment does not deter the criminal from another crime. Cahalan said in Detroit 67 per cent of those convicted of a felony are not sent to prison.

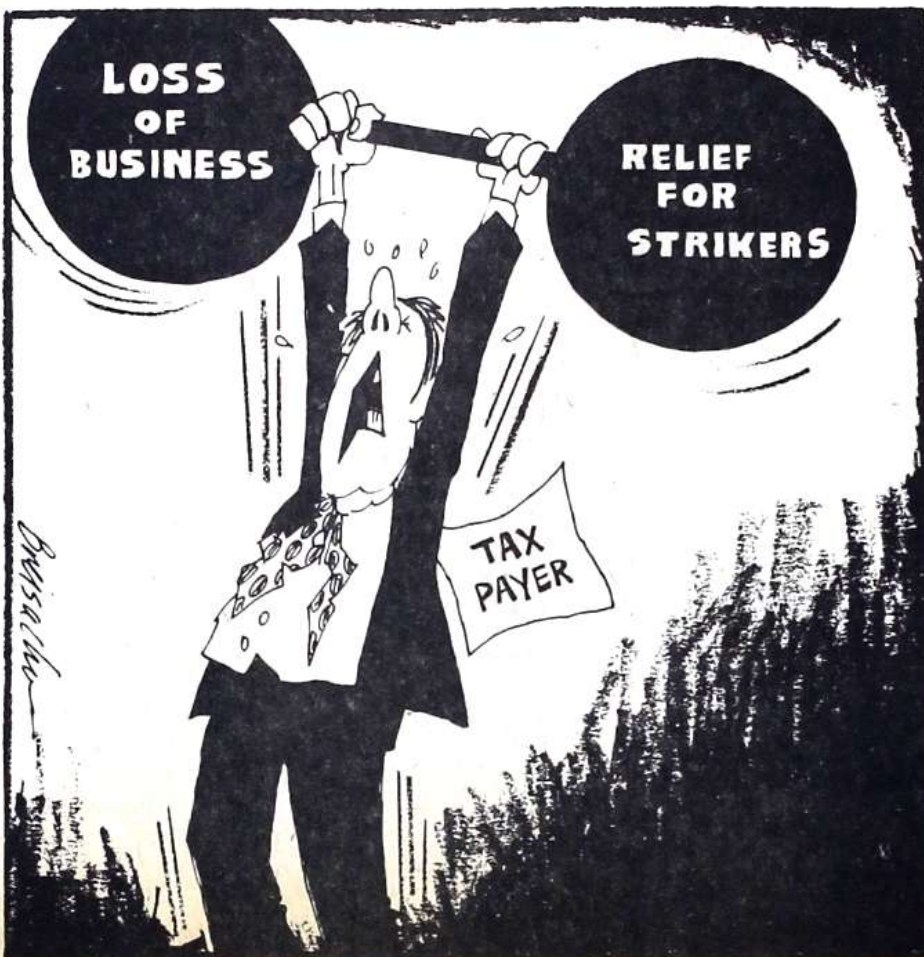

Cahalan said that the odds are 10 to 1 the offenders will not go to prison.

What Judge Baum proposes is more money for the court system to handle cases within 30 days and particularly getting more judges on the bench, at least such a ratio as one judge to each 35,000 persons.

Obviously, the disparity in justice about which Cahalan speaks and the crowded dockets are problems which cannot be solved under present conditions.

But the unequal justice being dispensed today and the callous disrespect of habitual criminals for the law are creating an untenable and dangerous situation.

Taxpayers are tapped for strikers' welfare

(First of three parts)

American taxpayers are being tapped for $329 million a year in welfare payments to support strikers against an economy straining to stay afloat.

It threatens to tip the delicate labor-management balance in favor of organized labor with unsuspecting taxpayers footing the bill.

That is the thesis of Dr. Armand J. Thieblot Jr., whose research for the University of Pennsylvania Wharton School of Finance and Commerce has dropped like a bomb before both labor and industry.

He said the 71-day General Motors strike in Michigan, which cost the state treasury $150 million in tax revenue, drained $15,665,777 from welfare funds to support strikers and their families during the same period.

UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey flatly denounces Thieblot's findings and charges that his study was financed by 13 industries and foundations oriented to the concerns of management.

Michigan Social Services Director R. Bernard Houston said funds go to strikers because his hands are tied by federal rulings issued by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in the early and mid-1960's.

The federal regulations were part of the social programs started by former President John F. Kennedy, then expanded by President Lyndon B. Johnson's anti-poverty program and upheld in their application by court decisions.

Under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program, enacted in 1961 to keep families together during the joblessness of the breadwinner, strikers are nothing in the law preventing it.

Thus was created the spinoff program that directly that directly helps strikers - Aid to Families with Dependent Children-Unemployed (AFD-negative impact on the economy - all at the expense of the taxpayers.

Thieblot points to an after-shock, a return to the crippling pattern of strikes before the federal wage-price freeze and an increase in their number, financed at least in part by welfare programs.

Mazey and the UAW offer the other side of the coin, that the work-or-starve condition of employment before labor was organized and in their early drive for economic clout has ended.

Their position is that any person, whether or not a member of a striking union, is a responsibility of government if he is in need.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said:

"There is a growing feeling that strikes of people getting $7,500 a year or more just don't make sense ... Years ago, you put people on strike who were making 50 cents an hour."

"But now the workers have a little home, they may have a couple of kids going to college. You put them on strike and they're overboard within a week."

Thieblot's findings argue that European labor unions finance their own strike benefits, that workers know well in advance they will need a nest egg to carry them through a strike and should make preparations to meet one of the hazards of economic life.

He predicts vast damage to America's economic system and wholesale changes in the national life unless the problem of welfare benefits for strikers is not solved.

"If by insulating unions and union members against the costs of strikes, the strike can no longer serve the function of being the catalyst for agreement, there would seem to be no incentive to tolerate strikes, nor to retain the collective bargaining system," he said.

Bus drivers' prexy responds to letter

To the editor:

We the bus drivers who did not get hired by Michigan School Bus Service challenge Patricia Estermeier to meet our representative on the stage at Belleville High School Auditorium or any other public place at any time and bring with her the person or persons who are feeding her all the false information she is printing in the newspapers.

You, Patricia Estermeier, should get your facts straight before you start writing. We did not feel an answer was necessary, but after three letters in the papers, we decided it is time to take you to task.

1. No doubt Michigan School Bus Service is providing good bus service as you only have to look to the headlines in the local paper (1965) to see that the Van Buren school board has allowed them to adopt a program that Van Buren bus drivers proposed and have been proposing for the past six years.

2. Safety: This school district has operated more than 40 years without accidents in the buses. You cannot name one child who was hurt because we did not have them. As for choosing buses, we say that a bus is not safe enough to pick up your child, is not safe enough to pick up someone else's child and should be taken off the road until it is safe enough for everyone's child.

3. Michigan School Bus Service test: The only test we ever took was a word matching test that did not pertain to bus driving any way, shape, form or fashion.

4. Poor records: This is another untruth you have invented or have been told. We, the Van Buren bus drivers - and this means all Van Buren bus drivers - will match our records against those of Michigan School Bus Service at any time. We do not claim to know what kind of records they have.

No, Patricia Estermeier, we don't want any sympathy for we do not have to take a back seat to anyone when it comes to records, children's safety or bus driving because we are professional drivers, licensed, qualified and certified by the state.

Citizen help sought to keep funds home

To the editor:

I can understand helping South Vietnam to rebuild, but why help our enemies?

Part of the proposed $7.5 billion could be used in this country to feed the poor, fight crime, build low cost housing, build schools, which would in time reduce property taxes, and to help financially our returning veterans.

We could help South Vietnam to keep itself. As it is in such a weakened condition, Hanoi will finish it off with the aid of Russia and Red China, which could result in another Pearl Harbor.

Some of these billions could be used to create jobs for veterans, such as building houses and roads, conservation and farming. Also, there is a great need for more police. We have enough laws, but not enough police to enforce them.

I think our country is being sold out to the Reds and it's high time the American people speak out, write letters and do whatever it takes to make our president, congressmen and senators know how we feel about sending billions to Hanoi.

While President Nixon, Senator Robert Griffin and others are planning to reshape North Vietnam. Why not think about reshaping our own country first?

Van Buren woman eyes stolen painting

To the editor:

I have become the victim of one of my neighboring citizens. I'm upset with myself for my error and twice as upset with the person who has kept the painting they picked up.

The package had the store's name painted on it and was here in Belleville. If only you returned it to the store.

I hope you enjoy looking at your stolen painting and are reminded that you're a thief every time you walk by it.

Sweet dreams.

Thoughts...

MIA's friends are able to help

The American people appear to be soothed by the listing of 591 American prisoners of war from the Vietnamese conflict.

It'll be interesting to see just how soothed they remain.

The ledger is 1,200 to the negative side, because there were more than 1,800 men listed either as prisoners of war or missing in action by the United States.

Included on the negative side are two area men, Refugio Teran, a sergeant in the army who hasn't been heard from since 1970, and Gary LaBohn, a sergeant in the special forces who disappeared in late 1968.

Both could join the ranks of the soldiers who were never found after the Korean War, unless their neighbors become aroused.

The Warren Jaycees have proven what the people could accomplish during a recent letter campaign to North Vietnam asking the whereabouts of Michael O'Connor, a navy warrant officer who disappeared early in the Vietnamese conflict.

O'Connor, whose father heads the Michigan Prisoner of War Committee, was listed as missing in action, a designation which placed him in official limbo.

The Warren Jaycees organized a massive campaign in that community, asking specifically for O'Connor, and were rewarded with the revelation that he was a prisoner in North Vietnam.

Area residents could do the same for the two Westlanders missing from the war.

They could contact Bill Harler of Warren at 268-9653 to get details on how to organize the campaign, and then begin questioning the North Vietnamese about the two men. Although LaBohn's case is severe, his isn't as bad as the case of Teran. The Warren Jaycees and the South Lyons Jaycees have taken up LaBohn's cause.

No one has picked up Teran's cause, yet. But if they did, there is a good chance the effort would succeed.

In Asian countries, one man's life is not significant. Individuals are not remembered very long after they have passed on.

Therefore, the effect of having hundreds and thousands of letters pour into Vietnam requesting the whereabouts of an individual sometimes shocks the North Vietnamese into action, as evidenced by O'Connor's case.

The same could happen in Westland, if someone took the initiative.

Spinning wheels cause transmission trouble

Spinning car wheels violently in mud, snow or on ice is the most common cause of trouble with automatic transmissions.

Rock the car back and forth gently by shifting from "L" to "R" until enough momentum is gained to drive clear is the recommendation of auto experts. If this fails, try to dig out or call for a tow.

To keep the transmission in top condition, the fluid level should be checked periodically. Check when the transmission is warm, with the engine running, and the selector in "park" or "neutral."

Before checking the level, move the shift lever through all positions.

Never overfill the transmission. Too much fluid will cause foaming, resulting in slippage and spattering of the fluid out through the vent.

Smell the transmission dipstick when checking the fluid level. A burned odor indicates overheating caused by hard-driving habits or slippage inside the transmission.

Intermittent transmission slippage accompanied by the engine racing on a hill or turn may be an indication of a low fluid level or transmission bands in need of adjustment. Prolonged slippage causes heat damage inside the gear box.

The fluid and filter should be changed as recommended, but more frequent changes will keep the transmission operating smoothly. Fresh fluid cleans the hydraulic system.

Dessert with a foreign accent

Egg custard, baked in its own caramel sauce, is a classic sweet served all over Europe and the Middle East. In both Spain and Mexico the custard is known as Flan.

Fortunately you don't have to visit any foreign country or even a restaurant to enjoy this typical dessert. This American version, called Caramel Topped Custard, is made with ease by using a package of egg custard mix. This custard is the one that's "baked" in a saucepan and chilled in a simple mold (or bowl) which has been coated with a golden sugar syrup. The finishing touch after unmolding is a casual sprinkling of chopped nuts.

Another dessert with a foreign accent is Mocha Custard. Again made with the friendly assistance of a package of egg custard mix which is prepared with the addition of a touch of cocoa and instant quality coffee. Chill this sweet in custard cups to unmold just before serving. If you like, this delicately flavored dessert can be garnished with a dollop of prepared whipped topping and a chocolate curl.

So you see, interesting desserts with a foreign accent can be prepared quickly and easily — and grand enough to serve to the most discriminating of guests!

Carmel Topped Custard

one third cup sugar
1 package (3 oz.) Jell-O Golden Egg Custard Mix
1-1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup light cream
1 egg yolk (optional)
Chopped nuts

Melt sugar in heavy skillet, stirring constantly until golden. Quickly pour into a small 2-1/2-cup bowl or casserole and rotate quickly to coat bottom and sides with syrup. Set aside. Blend custard mix with milk and cream in saucepan. For an even richer custard add egg yolk. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Pour into syrup-lined bowl. Chill until set. Unmold. Sprinkle with nuts. Makes 2 cups or 4 servings. (Refrigerate any leftover custard.)

Note: Recipe may be doubled using 1-quart casserole as shown in photo.

Mocha Custard

1 package (3 oz.) Jell-O Golden Egg Custard Mix
1/4 cup sugar
1 tablespoon Baker's Cocoa
2 teaspoons Instant Maxwell House, Instant Sanka, or Instant Yuban Coffee
2 cups milk
1 egg yolk (optional)

Combine ingredients in saucepan. Bring quickly to a boil, stirring constantly. (Mixture will be thin.) Pour into custard cups or dessert dishes. Cool or chill until set. If dessert will be unmolded, chill thoroughly. Makes 2 and one third cups or 4 servings.

Lovelier you

If you're a long hair

BY MARY SUE MILLER

Girls with long hair who never want to cut it are usually plagued by some very special problems. It can be "frizzes," or after-shampoo tangles, or split and thinning ends.

Well, here's where a rinse-out conditioning lotion could relieve those pesky troubles. Application is an instant affair. You just pour the lotion onto slightly towel-dried hair and rise it out in the shower after washing your locks. No mixing, on special comb-through.

At the finish, ends and frizzes have had a helpful treatment. But best of all, snarls and tangles do a disappearing act. The hair looks long and silky — together.

It goes without saying — or does it? — that if your hair falls below your shoulders in length, it should be washed under the shower; bend your head so the hair falls toward the floor. This keeps suds, water and rinses flowing downward with an action similar to combing.

When towel-drying the head, also bend forward. Squeeze the strands between layers of a folded towel and work from nape to ends. Be very careful to avoid circular motions, any sort of tousle or ruffling.

After the hair is free of excess damp, a clean dry hairbrush will swish the strands in any direction you wish. Without that old tangle trouble.

Women of the Moose

By Shirley Garry

Belleville Chapter 1135: Hospital chairmen Fran Melick would like to take this time to say thank you to everyone for helping her out during the month of February.

Congratulations to Ben and Ellen Hendrickson on being Champs of the Pool League. Congratulations to those who lost also (I myself was a loser) but had a good time playing the game. Don't forget the Pool Banquet on March 3 with Jim Farr playing for us. Let's all turn out and have a good time.

Co-workers, March 4 is Chapter Rally Day in Jackson. We will depart from the Moose Lodge at 11 a.m. Those who are going are to be at the lodge by 10 a.m. Bring formals and caps and gowns.

Fish fries are every Friday from 5 'til 8 p.m. Meetings are the second and fourth Monday of each month. Next meeting will be held March 12 at 8 p.m.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Crosby on celebrating their 64th wedding anniversary this past week. A party was given to them by their daughter, Elsie Parry, at Moose Lodge 934 with all their family and friends attending.

In last week's column, we inadvertently listed our guest, Patti Rader, as a student at Schoolcraft High School. Patti, who was presented with a check to further her nursing education when she attends Schoolcraft College after graduation, is a senior at Romulus High School.

MISS DILKS

Eastern students engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Dilks of New Boston are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Gayle Anne, to Marvin Hillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hillman of Flat Rock.

Both young people are currently students at Eastern Michigan University. The bride-elect is a sophomore majoring in Spanish and her fiancé, a senior, is an industrial technology major. Miss Dilks was graduated from Huron High School in 1971.

Tentative wedding plans are set for early 1974.

Handicrafts taught at Study Club

The Belleville Junior Study Club met at the home of Jean Flavell on S. Biggs Street for its February meeting. Thirteen members were present as well as two guests, Sharon Matthews and Ginny Lee.

Collector plates, which the General Federation of Women's Clubs is selling, were exhibited. Other business included Susannah Fry telling that the National Junior Women's project this year is the kidney association and announcement of Legislation Day for the G.F.W.C. in Lansing March 21.

The program for the evening featured Suzie Druker displaying and demonstrating the how-to's of De-Cal-It plaques. The group also worked on paper tote plaques under the guidance of Shar Tator and Carol Fitch.

Jo Gerrish and Jayne Atchinson, co-hostesses, had charge of refreshments.

Endangered species

Because of man's destruction of their natural habitat, some species that were never hunted are extinct, according to Remington Arms. In fact, research has found that most of the birds and mammals listed today as "endangered" by the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife have never been hunted. Pollution, destruction of habitat, farming and forestry methods that leave the ground barren — these are the destroyers — not the weekend sportsman. The hunter knows that without intelligent management both hunted and non-hunted birds and animals will suffer.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

BY HAROLD REDISKE, DIRECTOR

Our present decade will be described in history as days of a phase and phrase that God had died ... One wonders how historians will record the hysteria, the claims and counter claims that followed His bizarre obituary ... One wonders how historians will record the saddest aspect of it all how churchmen themselves set out to detail new theological theories due to His alleged death.

Time will tell. But in the meantime, all of us should be thankful an OVERWHELMING majority of churchmen and laymen knew the obituary was a mistake. God — The Supreme Being, The Creator and Ruler of the Universe, All Knowing, Infinite, and Ever Present — IS NOT DEAD! True, He has been wounded, but He has been wounded before by people, not only in this age, but in ages past, plenty of times ... He lived through it before, and He lives today!

You don't have to go to the Bible to prove it. You don't have to look at the sky, the stars, the sun, the moon, the tides, all of which are His handiwork and still in working order. You need only go to the good people and KNOW HE LIVES! Why? Because many, many good people talked to Him last night and again this morning. We know a lot of these people. So do you. What more or better proof is needed?

And baby makes three at McCloskey home

MR. AND MRS. James McCloskey of 37027 Goddard Road, Romulus, have a new baby daughter to fuss over these mid-winter days. Their newly-adopted infant was born December 8 and weighed 7 lbs. - 11 oz. The new addition, who'll answer to Jamey Linn, has carrot red hair and sparkling green eyes, her parents add.

Mrs. McCloskey, the former Patti Gorney, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gorney of Fenster Avenue, Belleville. The paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McCloskey, reside in New Port Richey, Florida.

The infant received the sacrament of baptism Sunday at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Father Raymond Skonek presided at the ceremony at which Sandra Wilson and Edward Wenderski, Jr. were God-parents.

Bride-elect, fiance honored at shower

CHRISTINA HUSTYI and her fiance, Walter Morrell, had the fun of digging into a heap of presents, all items for their future home, at a recent shower in their honor. Held Sunday, January 28, at the home of Sandy Kind in Saline, the party was co-hosted by Virginia Morrell, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

About 40 men and women gathered for the afternoon event which featured several bridal-theme games and a buffet luncheon complete with a decorated cake carrying out the pink and white theme of the wedding.

Friends and relatives came from as far as Houghton Lake and also from Howell, Saline, Fowlerville, Ypsilanti, Plymouth, Detroit, Willis, and Belleville.

The young couple have set a March 24 wedding date with St. Joseph's Catholic Church of Whittaker reserved for their five o'clock nuptials.

Snow means a trip up north

THE RECENT SNOW, which blanketed the area, was just the thing to inspire a trip northward for the Tim Treschs of Romulus. That, plus an invitation from his sister and brother-in-law, Kathy and Mike Gallagher, took the pair and their snow-mobiles up to Crystal Lake at Beulah for the week-end.

Snow-fun wasn't the only item on the agenda, tho', cause the Gallaghers had planned a little surprise for her parents, the Gordon Treschs of Birmingham, who are about to mark their 40th wedding anniversary. Since the senior Treschs will be in Hawaii on their wedding date, their children decided to give them a 'bit of winter' before their month-long sojourn in the tropical breezes.

Also having a hand in the plans, which included a complete Italian dinner, a wedding cake, and presents, were another of the Tresch's daughters, Gayle Ford, her husband, Ben, and their twins, David and Dawn, from Oxford.

Kosins fly south for Daytona races

A QUICKIE TRIP to Florida broke the mid-winter doldrums for Chet and Mary Kosin who on February 16 jetted to Florida with three of their sons in tow — Michael, 14; Chester, 10; and Frankie, nine. Saturday's and Sunday's big races at Daytona Beach were the drawing cards for the racing buffs who saw the Permatex 300 on the 17th and the Daytona 500 the following day.

And, despite cold and rainy weather Sunday, the skies cleared and the track dried long enough for the four-hour race to be held. Then, at the final flag, the skies re-opened and the deluge continued. Chet, Mary says, is beginning to think Somebody up there likes them.

Before returning to Michigan Monday, the group enjoyed a tour of the John F. Kennedy Space Center at Cape Kennedy.

Susan is home for 19th birthday

SUSAN SMITH, whose 19th birthday was Tuesday, February 27, was home from Flint for the week-end to celebrate the occasion (a couple days early) with her family, the Ron Smiths of Wexford Street, Belleville.

Susan's mom, Neva, decided it was an ideal time to pay a little tribute to her daughter, the third of her seven children, who is a senior at Michigan School for the Deaf.

Handicapped since the age of four (when she was stricken by one of three very rare forms of spinal meningitis) Susan has consistently made her way in life and chalked up quite a record for herself.

Her most recent accomplishment was earning her candy stripper's cap at McLaren General Hospital in Flint where she has worked as a volunteer in the records department since last September.

Holding a 3.75 average at her school, she is recording secretary of her senior class, editor of the yearbook, and secretary of Stevens Hall, her dormitory.

She also puts in four hours each week at Southwestern High School in Flint where, as a teacher-assistant, she aids in manual skills (sign language) classes.

And though she's very adept in the journalism field (she's had several articles on ecology published in the Flint Journal and has won a number of awards for her essays and short stories) her goal in life lies elsewhere.

With her application already into Washington, D.C.'s Gaudet College for the Deaf, Susan plans to work toward a psychology major and then go into social work with the handicapped.

Susan and her family are newcomers to Belleville, having moved here from Flint a year ago when the man-of-the-house was transferred to the Ann Arbor Terminal of Roadway Express which he manages.

Making it a real celebration, complete with a decorated cake and all the fix'n's, were (top row) Kathy Kinsella and Denise Johnson (captain and co-captain, respectively, for varsity), Linda Burwell, Robin Moore, Val Ford, and Sue Long.

M.S.U. offers new sequence of family counseling courses

The national divorce rate is one divorce for every four marriages.

In Ingham County (Mich.) it's higher: one divorce for every two and one-half marriage licenses issued.

Perhaps some of these marriages could be saved, says Dr. Donald Melcer, professor of family and child sciences at Michigan State University, if only people were able to admit their marriages have problems.

"There is a feeling that marital problems mean some sort of personal inadequacy," he says, "and people are reluctant to admit this. Those who do seek help are usually concerned couples who want to work on their problems and don't feel threatened by admitting them."

Even if people were more willing to take their problems to someone trained to help them, there is a shortage of qualified family counselors. To help meet this growing need, Dr. Melcer has developed a series of three graduate courses on family counseling.

The first, offered fall term for the second time, looks at the family as a social system in miniature. It stresses that, for the system to function at the optimum level, three factors must be kept in balance: the economic functions (management of the home and money), individual rights of family members, and interpersonal relationships (husband-wife, parent-child, spouse-in-laws, etc.).

The second course, new this term, is a survey of the literature and practice of marriage and family counseling. Guest speakers each week offer insights into their specialties: crisis counseling, sexual adjustment, premarital counseling, single parent families, death counseling, legal aspects of the family, women's rights and family restructuring.

The third course, to be offered for the second time spring term, takes a general systems approach to the family. A major emphasis, Dr. Melcer says, will be on communication: how people communicate, how communication breaks down, and what can be done about it.

"The family counselor can be effective because he is outside the system," Dr. Melcer says. "He can see what is happening in the relationship between husband and wife, for instance — and he can be objective. He has no vested interest in either party, so he can work for the relationship rather than for either individual."

"One of the techniques for improving a relationship is to emphasize the positive factors in it. There is more potential in most people's relationship than they ever thought was there, but in a marriage with severe problems, the good points tend to get lost. Going back to the positive aspects of the relationship helps put things back in perspective and opens the lines of communication."

About one-third of the students in the course this term are graduate students in social work. Some are already intern counselors. The rest are scattered across several majors, including psychology, education and family and child sciences. The class includes several people with training in the ministry.

"About 65 percent of the first contacts with marriages with problems are made with ministers rather than professional counselors," Dr. Melcer notes, "and many ministers are recognizing they need more training. With these courses we hope to help meet that need."

Oriental pork chops

Right now it's easier for a homemaker to fill those inevitable requests for a second pork chop. For the plentiful supply of pork on the market has made prices for this popular meat especially attractive to shoppers. Extra portions can be served with minimum impact on the purse.

Now's the time, too, to experiment a bit and give new face and flavor to frequently used pork cuts such as chops. If you usually braise pork chops, try broiling them for a change, suggests Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Select inch-thick chops for broiling at a low to moderate temperature and add oriental flavor by brushing with a soy-ginger sauce.

Broiled or braised pork chops provide many important food nutrients. Like all meats, pork is a high contributor of protein, iron and B vitamins. It also scores a plus in that it contributes more thiamin than any other food source.

Oriental Pork Chops
6 pork loin chops, cut ¾ to 1 inch thick
1-3 cup soy sauce
¼ cup sugar
1 clove garlic, minced
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon powdered ginger

Combine soy sauce, sugar, garlic, salt and ginger. Pour mixture over pork chops and allow to marinate 4 to 6 hours, turning occasionally. Place on rack in broiler pan. Place chops 5 to 7 inches from heat. Broil 10 minutes on the first side. Turn and broil on second side 15 to 20 minutes or until well done. Serve hot. 6 servings.

Kleeman baby is born in Germany

Relatives in Belleville have received word of a new addition to their family trees. Announcement comes from Wurzburg, Germany where Gary and Shelly Kleeman now reside and where he teaches at the American High School.

The Kleemans became parents of a baby girl February 21. Their first child, she weighed an even seven pounds and was titled Andrea Louise.

Mrs. Kleeman is the former Shelly Riggs, daughter of Lloyd Riggs of Belleville. Andrea is his third grandchild. The paternal grandparents, also of Belleville, are Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Kleeman.

From faraway places

Hunters and birdwatchers owe a "thank you" to the dedicated sportsmen who brought foreign birds to our shores. (Through excise taxes on sporting firearms and ammunition and license fees, hunters continue to contribute to sound wildlife management.) Hunters brought the popular ringnecked pheasant here in 1882 from the Orient. Today the ringneck harvest in South Dakota alone approaches one million birds a year. To bag these game birds, Remington Arms suggests you use a good dog and match the birds' speed with a fast-firing gun.

Variety store will close; Auto parts business opens

L-M Variety Store, in business in Romulus since 1947, is closing its doors as a dime store March 17, only to open them again as an automobile parts business.

Camper group to get number and charter

The new area chapter "Coffee & Campfires" of the National Campers and Hikers Association (NCHA) has received its chapter number. It is No. 224.

At the January meeting of the chapter, members set up their first three-month camping schedule as follows: On March 23-25 to Big Portage Lake in the Waterloo Recreation Area; April 21-23 to Bishop Lake in Brighton Recreation Area; May 11-13 to Bruin Lake in Pinckney Recreation Area, and on May 18-20 to the Michigan Annual Spring Campout to receive the chapter's charter from the state.

The store, on Goddard Road in downtown Romulus, has been undergoing a gradual change from a dime store to an automobile parts business.

A free "Safety of Wheels Clinic" for all travel trailers and tent trailers will be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. March 17 on the parking lot of the Belleville Senior High School. The club would like to perform a service for all the local area campers by having this visual safety clinic.

Club members will check such things as hitches, bearings, wiring, tires, etc. Everyone with a trailer is welcome.

For information on the new chapter contact Ken or Pat Twydel at 697-4742.

Five couples of the new an auto parts store for the past couple of years, according to owner Lee Blitz.

By the middle of March, however, Blitz expects to have all his dime store stock sold out and replaced with a full line of automobile parts.

"The change won't be completed until about the middle of April," he said, "but March 17 is the date we've set for closing the door as a dime store."

Until the final business date, Blitz expects to empty the store's shelves with a special going-out-of-business sale.

Blitz said that his new business will stock a full line of automobile parts, including exhaust pipes, mufflers, shock absorbers, starter motors, pumps and ignition parts, by the time the change-over is completed in April.

Belleville man gets promotion

A Belleville man has been named manager of R.W. Morgan Co., of Detroit, designers and builders of refractory facilities for the glass and metal-working industries.

He is Carl W. Rhinehart.

Rhinehart was a refractory service engineer with Combustion Engineering in Detroit before joining the Morgan Company, a subsidiary of Glasrock Products, Inc. of Atlanta.

Medical program is set

Families & Neighborhood Services, the Romulus Advisory Council of Communities United for Action and the Romulus Welfare Rights Organization is sponsoring a program, "Early Periodic Screening Diagnosis and Treatment," at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Romulus Public Library, 11121 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus.

A new preventative medical and dental program is in the process of being developed in Michigan for all children, birth to 21, who are eligible for medicare.

The preventative program will begin in Wayne County April 8.

For information, call 941-9590.

Area Jaycee party is called 'success'

More than 250 people attending the recent Romulus Jaycees millionaires party made the event a success, according to the Jaycees.

Those attending the party at the Progressive Hall, earned more than $1,000 in prizes through their winnings in play money at nine gaming tables.

Winner of the night was Mrs. Frank Gabbert of Plymouth, who pulled in more than $167 million in play money.

With her earnings, Mrs. Gabbert purchased a multi-channel portable radio.

Proceeds from the event will be used to finance community improvement projects in the city during the coming year.

Is it time to replace your water system?

For years, that reliable old electric pump has been providing all the good fresh well water your family needs.

But now you're thinking about installing a second or third bathroom in your home. Or buying an automatic dishwasher. Or putting in a lawn sprinkler. And suddenly, you discover that "old reliable" just won't deliver the water you need, at the pressures these new facilities require.

If you are modernizing your home with new water using appliances (or perhaps your family is getting larger), then it's time to take a good, hard look at your present home water system - to determine if it will give you the type of service your family needs, or will need in the future.

What about your water system pump, for example?

The important question here is: Do you have a pump that will deliver all the water your family needs, when you need it? You should have enough pressure to allow the use of several outlets at the same time.

To determine the correct pump size, a knowledge of the peak water demand in your home is essential. That demand, or capacity, in gallons per minute should equal the number of water outlets installed in your home. For example, a water system with a capacity of 12 gallons per minute should be required for a modern home with two bathrooms, a kitchen, an automatic dishwasher, an automatic washing machine, a laundry tub in the basement and two outside faucets.

Your water system should be capable of delivering the required capacity in your home continuously for one hour. You'll need about 75 gallons a day per person for household use, plus more for outside use. If you live on a farm, these requirements are much greater, of course.

A water system is normally set to operate at pressures between 20 and 40 pounds per square inch. Where special situations exist - where the pump is installed at a great distance from the house or outlets are more than 20 feet above the pump - manufacturers now recommend 30 psi to 50 psi systems.

Motion by Bizek, supported by Block, to adopt Resolution No. 73-195.

RESOLUTION NO. 73-195

WHEREAS, the Romulus City Council deems it in the best interest for the safety and general welfare of the City and its citizens that it oppose the construction by the State Department of Highways of highway rest areas along I-94, north and south side, between Merriman Road and Wayne Road within the City of Romulus, and proposed rest areas to be an unnecessary use of the proposed rest area sites, a land use incompatible with the projected development of the area resulting in a depletion of the tax base of the City, a use which would create a potentially dangerous traffic hazard to all traffic in that area on I-94, and an unreasonable infringement upon the peace and quiet of the residents of the community.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT the Romulus City Council does hereby state its objection to the construction of rest areas along the north and south side of I-94 in the City of Romulus by the State Department of Highways, urges said Department to abandon its proposal for construction of highway rest areas in the City of Romulus, and directs the City administration to undertake any appropriate action opposing said construction.

AIP sets film show

The American Independent Party (AIP) of Wayne County will present a film entitled "Defense Denied" at 7:30 p.m. March 1 at the Dearborn Youth Center, Michigan Avenue and Greenfield Road, Dearborn.

The film has been described as the "most poignant, dynamic and provocative film ever produced on the subject of total disarmament."

Mrs. Josephine Chapman of Belleville, Wayne County chairman of the American Independent Party, said that this film has received enthusiastic receptions where ever it has been shown and that it is a must for those people who are concerned about losing the right to keep and bear arms.

"Over the past few years there have been incessant clamors by politicians and pundits of the mass media for legislation (1) to restrict and eventually outlaw private gun ownership, (2) to handcuff our local police forces and replace all local police forces with an all powerful federal police force and (3) to make sweeping changes in our judicial and prison systems, augmenting the "rights" of the criminals," Mrs. Chapman said.

Belleville Players ready 'Gazebo' with many rehearsals, hard work

By DOROTHY FLORIAN

The couple of days left before opening night of "The Gazebo" are busy for the Belleville Community Players (BCP).

Tonight is technical rehearsal in which all technical aspects from lighting and sound to scene changes and curtains will be ironed out. Full costumes and make-up, all blending with the lighting, are on the schedule for dress rehearsal tomorrow night.

The last members of the cast that are discussed in this column are: Ken Miller, John Touse, Ray Florian, Chuck King, Tom Branscomb, Chris Lochrie and Larry Haase.

Ken Miller, who portrays Mr. Thorpe, a contractor, has acted in high school and college productions, and was affiliated with the Livonia Redford Theatre Guild.

With the Livonia group Ken acted in several productions and had the lead in "Ladies in Retirement."

Since joining the BCP, Ken appears to be typecast as either a contractor or a policeman. In "Never Too Late," he portrayed two roles, that of a policeman and a contractor.

In "Pillow Talk," Ken again played a policeman. Now here he is again playing a contractor in "The Gazebo."

Ken is married and the father of three children. He is a station installation foreman for the Bell Telephone Company.

A very poor gangster, the Dook, is played by John Touse.

A fairly new addition to the BCP, this is John's second acting experience. He received his first taste of acting in "Pillow Talk," in which he had the second male lead.

John is an engineer for the Hydra-Matic Division of the General Motors Corporation. He is married and has one child.

Portraying another gangster, Louie, is Ray Florian who is making his acting debut with the BCP.

As past chairman of the Van Buren Recreation Commission for many years, Ray was instrumental in the formation of the BCP.

Ray teaches at Taylor Junior High, is married and the father of six children.

Another theater buff is Chuck King acting his second role with the BCP. He portrays Jenkins, a busy detective.

Chuck has worked on all the BCP productions and acted in "Never Too Late."

Chuck is associated with Pittsburg Products of Ann Arbor.

A newcomer to the BCP is Tom Branscomb in the role of Dr. Wyner.

Tom portrayed the fish-monger and sword dancer in Belleville High School's musical, "Brigadoon." He also worked backstage on "Oklahoma."

A 1972 BHS graduate, Tom is a student at EMU. He also is active in scouting and is an assistant scoutmaster for Troop 793.

Another newcomer to the BCP and making his stage debut is Chris Lochrie, in the role of a policeman.

Also a 1972 graduate of BHS, Chris has worked on both high school musicals, "Oklahoma" and "Brigadoon." Chris also sang with the concert choir for four years.

A walk-on, or rather a laying-down role, that of the Body, is played by Larry Haase. It may be a small role, but since a murder is not a murder without a body, it is an important part.

This is Larry's first role on stage, but he has been active backstage in all the BCP productions.

Larry is an engineer for the Ford Motor Company, is married and the father of four children.

The cast and the backstage crews have all been busy for the last two months rehearsing lines and preparing the set in order to present Belleville with an evening of entertainment.

"The Gazebo" is a funny play about Elliott Nash, a television writer of "whodunits," who finds himself in a spot where he has to commit a real do-it-yourself murder.

The two-act mystery-comedy, "The Gazebo," will be at the Belleville High School Auditorium on March 2, 9 and 10. Curtain time is 8:30 and tickets at $1.50 may be purchased at the door.

Ice show set

Ice Capades, the 33rd edition of an unbroken series, will take over Olympia Stadium starting March 20 for an engagement that will extend through March 27 for 11 performances.

Nine lavish production numbers, each with colorful settings reflect a myriad of moods from "Atlantis" to "Sentimental Journey."

The stars of this program are Ken Shelley and Jo Jo Starbuck, three-time U.S. Pairs Figure Skating Champions and bronze medalists in World Figure Skating Competitions in 1971 and 1972.

Other stars in the cast include Anna Galmarini, Peter Gordon and Barbara Wilson, Sashi Kuchiki, badminton on ice with Hugh Forgie and Shirley Marie, Freddie Trenkler, the bouncing ball on the ice, and the Ruppert's Live Bears.

Weeknight performances will begin at 7:30 p.m.; three shows on Saturday, March 24 at 1 p.m., 5 p.m. and 9 p.m.; two shows on Sunday, March 25 at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m.

For ticket information, call TY-5-7000.

'Lili' set for stage at Mercy

The poignant, beguiling "Lili," the wizard magician and the so-real puppets in the talented hands of the hating-loving puppeteer are re-lived in the Mercy College of Detroit production of "Carnival."

The musical will run two weekends, at 8 p.m. March 16-18 and March 23-25 in McAuley Auditorium on the campus at W. Outer Drive and Southfield.

Under the direction of Ralph Mafongelli of the Mercy speech and drama department, Lili's sweet simplicity contrasts with the strident artificiality of carnival life. Tickets are available at Mercy College at $2.50, students $2.00.

For ticket information, call 697-9133 ext. 39.

Bands set 2nd concert

The Belleville Senior High School Symphony and Concert Bands will perform the second of the "Family Symphony Series" at 7:30 tonight at the Belleville Senior High School Auditorium.

The highlight of this month's concert will be a clarinet solo played by the conductor, Greg Hueue, accompanied by the band.

His selection is "Rondo" from Mozart's concerto.

For ticket information, call 697-9133 ext. 39.

'Country Girl' set to open in Rochester

"The Country Girl," Clifford Odets' moving study of an alcoholic actor's slipping career and his troubled marriage, will open at Meadow Brook Theatre at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow on the Oakland University campus in Rochester.

Scottish-born Michael Sinclair, whose latest New York works include "Sweet Charity" with Gwen Verdon and "Coco" with Katharine Hepburn, will direct "The Country Girl," his first play at Meadow Brook.

Odets saw "Country Girl" as a play celebrating not the theater of romantic illusion, but rather the gritty Broadway world of unemployed actors cajoling tough producers for jobs, against a tawdry background of cheap hotels and makeshift rehearsal conditions," said the director.

The role of actor Frank Elgin, battling both himself and the bottle, will be played by Bill Moor. Moor recently played at the Lyceum Theatre in New York in "The Great God Brown" and "Don Juan." He appeared on Broadway in James Baldwin's "Blues for Mr. Charlie," at Lincoln Center with Anne Bancroft in

"A Cry of Players" and in Lee J. Cobb's "King Lear."

Cast opposite him as the country girl, Georgie Elgin, is Elisabeth Orion. Miss Orion, a member of the Meadow Brook Company for five years, performed in several of last season's productions: "The Price," "Heartbreak House," "The Glass Menagerie" and "The Matchmaker." A native of Great Britain, Miss Orion has appeared at many outstanding theaters there in such cities as London, Perth, Birmingham and at the Edinburgh Festival.

Jean-Pierre Stewart, making his first appearance at Meadow Brook, plays the role of Bernie Dodd, the director who builds his play's success on his dogged faith in Frank Elgin.

Theater-goers attending "The Country Girl" are invited to view an art exhibition of "American Realism Post-Pop" at the Meadow Brook Art Gallery, across the lobby from the theater, through March 25.

Performances for opening week are 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday; matinee on Saturday at 2, and Sunday evening at 6:30.

Cabaret theater is planned by Wayne-Westland group

An evening of cabaret theater featuring three one-act plays will be presented by the Wayne-Westland Civic Theatre on Friday, Saturday, Monday, March 16 and March 17 at St. John's Church, 555 Wayne Rd., between Cherry Hill and Palmer Roads.

Seating will be arranged around small tables and the audience will be served punch and refreshments during the performances.

Tickets, which sell for $2.50, can be purchased at the door or by contacting Mrs. Anne Button, at 261-3183.

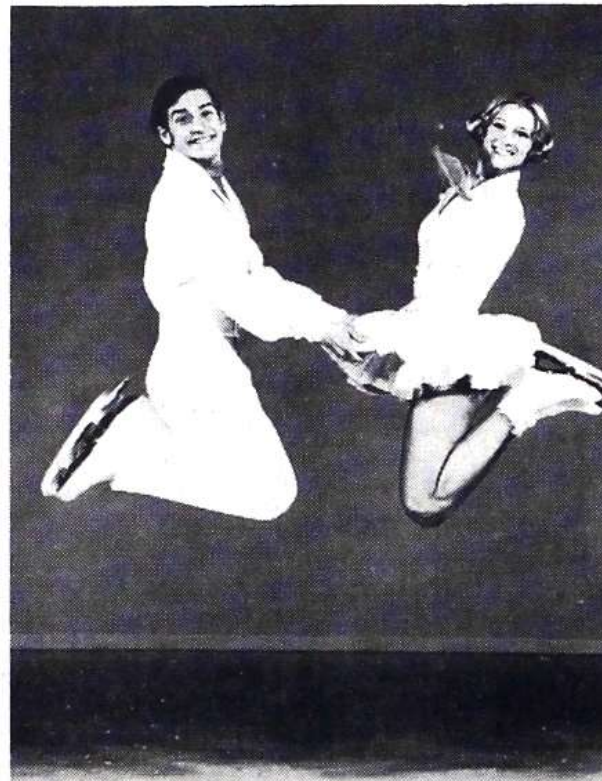

Edward Albee's bitter comic attack on modern family life, "The American Dream," will kick off the trio of plays. Directed by Al LaCroix, the cast includes Rosemary Moorehead as Mommy, Bob Weibel as Daddy, Lois Schafer as Grandma, Marty Moorehead as the American Dream and Carol Katz as the social worker.

A light touch will be added by Norman Corwin's "My Client Curley," an account of a dancing caterpillar who becomes a coast-to-coast fad before turning into a butterfly.

Directed by Bob Weibel with assistant director, Margaret Myers, the cast includes 37 characters who will be portrayed by actors David Boehnlein, Pam Fauceit, Tom Harris, Dave Katz, Marilyn Mallow, Roger Nicholson, David Scott, Sonia Scott, Lois Tobin, Lynn Tobin and Dave Whitlock.

"The new morality" will be given a humorously critical appraisal by the presentation of Lee Falk's "Home at Six."

PAIR CHAMPIONS — Jo Jo Starbuck and Shelley are the 1972 U.S. National Pair Champions who make their first professional appearance as headliners with the 1973 edition of Ice Capades which opens March 20 at the Olympia Stadium in Detroit. Performances are set through March 27.

Romulus man participates in 2 EMU theater dances

A Romulus man performed in the Eastern Michigan University dance theater concert recently in Ypsilanti.

He was Lowell Askiew, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mosses Askiew, 11121 Moore. He is a sophomore music major who performed in two dances.

The concert, an annual spring program, was performed by 40 students and several faculty members.

ROSEMARY MOOREHEAD

Directed by Rosemary Moorehead, the cast includes Isabel Barrett as the maid, Jeff Banks and Lynn Button as the children, Gail Freeborn as "Grams," Ed Moorehead and

AL LaCROIX

Pat Root as the husband and wife with Al LaCroix in the role of old army buddy turned boyfriend.

Graham film to be shown

Billy Graham's latest film entitled "Lost Generation" featuring special appearances of Art Linkletter and Jack Webb, star of "Dragnet," will be shown at 7 tonight at the Calvary Baptist Church, 11338 Ozga Rd., Romulus.

There will be no admission charge. "Lost Generation" is a probing documentary which takes a close look at the attitudes and morals of the nations, according to Pastor Lonnie England.

STAN AND IRENE PAULASKAS

Travel series includes film on Denmark

"A Danish Diary" produced by Stan and Irene Paulauskas, is the fifth program in the Wayne-Westland Family YMCA "Travel and Adventure Series." The film showing is set for 8:15 p.m. Saturday at Wayne Memorial High School in Wayne.

The Paulauskas are newcomers to the travel-lecture field. However, the world of travel is not new to them, as they have traveled extensively through the United States as well as abroad.

Equipped with a desire to know and understand new people and new worlds, they possess the natural talents required for this — their new profession.

The Paulauskas are a couple who will take Wayne-Westland YMCA film-goers on a youthful and imaginative journey through one of Europe's intriguing countries — Denmark.

In Copenhagen a chimney sweep becomes the most unique guides to this magnificent city. Film-goers will explore deeply into the delicate intrigues of the Danish way of life. From the Royal Palace of Amalienborg on the harbor to a "garden colony" of weekend chalets in a Copenhagen suburb.

Film-goers will visit the country folk of Denmark — people who work extremely hard and still never forget how to enjoy themselves. They will show film-goers an entire Danish farm — its operation as well as its effect on family life.

Tickets are $1.75 for adults and 75 cents for students.

SLATE CHIPS — One manufacturer has a tile pattern which creates the realistic, random appearance of hand-laid slate chips.

New style, low cost Revolution hits tile industry

A revolution of style and economy has hit the floor tile industry.

The do-it-yourselfer no longer has to settle for second best when it comes to highly-styled, quality flooring. With the array of patterns now available in low-cost, vinyl-asbestos tile, the luxury of high fashion underfoot is within reach of every pocketbook.

The tired old checkerboard patterns and uninspiring colors that once characterized tile flooring have vanished. In their place have emerged dozens of exciting new visuals aimed at the fashion-conscious homeowner.

New designs stress color, pattern and texture, while deemphasizing the individual tiles themselves. So skillfully concealed are today's tile seams that it's difficult to distinguish the finished job from a professionally - installed sheet floor.

Current trends in home decorating indicate a wide appeal for natural materials. Anticipating this, tile manufacturers have been able to simulate many of nature's own designs. One manufacturer offers patterns with the look of marble, brick, slate, wood, ceramics and stone. These new tile floors achieve a high degree of realism, thanks to improved manufacturing processes.

CUSTOMIZED FLOOR — The do-it-yourselfer can customize his tile floor by using two colors to achieve

Whether the homeowner prefers traditional or modern decor, the wide variety of tile floors allows free expression of personal taste. Tile floors make a good background for area rugs, whether they be costly Orientals or bold modern styles. Certainly one of the key advantages of tile is its economy. Vinyl-asbestos geometric effects. One manufacturer has a slate pattern which is ideal to accomplish the effect.

flooring for an average 12' x 15' room can cost as little as $60. And since you do the work yourself, there's no added expense for labor. This improved value allows you to spend more money on furnishings and accessories. Tile floors are easy to install. A few cartons of material, adhesive and an investment of several hours of free time are all it takes.

TILE COMPLEMENTS SCHEME — One manufacturer provides a new opportunity for distinctive flood styling with tile. Its embossed medallion inset captures the flavor of ancient Aztec design and the tile comes in a variety of colors to complement any decorating scheme.

It is quite possible, although I have never made an actual count, that I get more mail during the course of a year asking about excessive moisture than any other single subject.

The questions mostly concern sweating windows, with occasional references to mildew and musty odors. In all cases, the culprit is too much moisture, another way of saying that the relative humidity is too high.

With a good barometer, a cheap one seldom operates efficiently for very long, you can measure the relative humidity in your house, the ideal figure being between 30 and 45 per cent. But your windows are excellent one-way barometers, sweating when excessive moisture is present.

The sweating is condensation, which occurs when warm, moist air hits a cooler surface. Condensation takes place wherever this condition is present, so that it also may happen on certain walls or other cool surfaces. When it occurs on a ceiling, it is usually because the ceiling is under an unheated, uninsulated attic. But generally, we first see condensation on windows, not only because they are the most visible but because they are likely to be the coolest of the various surfaces within the home. If the storm sash eliminates the condensation on the inside window but does its own sweating, then it's the inside window that isn't air tight.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
Q. — The previous owner of our house put up gypsum board walls in the attic several years ago. It seems to have stood up well except on one wall where there is a gap between two of the boards at the joint. How can this be repaired?

A. — Ordinary patching cement of the type used for plaster repairs will be sufficient if the gap is very narrow. But if it is more than an inch, you should use perforated tape and prepared gypsum cement, both of which can be obtained at most hardware stores, lumber yards and building supply dealers. Apply the cement into the opening. Press the tape into place directly into the cement with a putty knife. Some of the cement should come through the holes in the tape. Run the putty knife carefully over the area to smooth the protruding cement. When the patch is completely dry, apply a thin coat of cement over the tape, smoothing the edges where they run into the surrounding surface. When the new cement is dry, sandpaper and repaint to match the rest of the wall or, better yet, do the entire wall.

Q. — I have recently undertaken small projects using unusual kinds of wood. I read somewhere that collecting different kinds of wood is a hobby followed by many thousands of persons. Where can rare wood specimens be obtained?

A. — There are several commercial establishments which sell exotic woods. However, you are more likely to be interested in the International Wood Collectors Society, a nonprofit organization whose members swap wood and collect specimens. There are over 75,000 identified species of wood, but I am told that you are considered to have a great collection if you can come into possession of several thousand. For further information, write to Harrison Neustadt, 6 Benedict Ave., Eastchester, N.Y. 10709.

Grant delayed

Sumpter Township recently learned that it may be a while before it receives a federal-state grant for sewage lines project.

The proposed project would have brought lines in on the eastern end of the township and would eventually serve the entire township's sewage needs.

Many Sumpter officials argue that this is an urgent necessity for a good portion of the community because of Sumpter's high water table.

The State Department of Natural Resources has given the project a relatively low priority ranking of 329 within a group of 350 state projects.

The legislature should take some action on the list by early March, but township officials are not getting their hopes up on the projects chances.

At present a fairly large portion of the township is poorly suited for any further development because of the high water table.

SUMPTER TOWNSHIP INVITATION TO BID

Sealed proposals will be received by the Sumpter Township Clerk, 23483 Sumpter Road, Belleville, Michigan, until 5:00 pm Tuesday, March 13, 1973, at which time and place the bids will be publicly opened and read aloud for:

(6) Voting Machines

Specifications are available at the Office of the Township Clerk at the above address. All bids must be plainly marked on the envelope "Bid on Voting Machines"

The Township of Sumpter reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive defects in bidding in the best interest of the Township.

Clerk Sumpter Township

ROTARY CLUB SPEAKER — Kenneth Bull, large fruit grower from Bailey, Mich., was the guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club held at the First Methodist Church of Belleville. Bull (at the podium) detailed the new farming techniques and programs in the operation of

Michigan traffic accidents result in all-time high record

Michigan traffic in 1972 resulted in new all-time high records for injuries, accidents, miles traveled and economic loss according to state police traffic division figures.

The traffic death toll, though not a new high at 2,258 nevertheless is recorded as the state's fourth worst annual loss and is up 106 from 1971.

Higher tolls were 2,487 in 1969, 2,392 in 1968 and 2,298 in 1966.

Injuries numbered 178,929 last year, up 13.5 per cent from 1971 and topped the old mark of 175,400 in 1969.

Accidents totaled 359,745, up 14.5 per cent from the year before, and exceeded the previous high of 331,223, also in 1969.

Miles traveled reached a new high of 57.8 billions, up four per cent over 1971. The travel total has set a new record virtually every year.

The economic loss, based on a National Safety Council estimating formula, is figured at a new high of $630,000,000 an increase of 16.7 per cent over $540,000,000 in 1971 and presumably reflecting some inflationary effect.

One statistic remained unchanged as the 3.9 death rate per 100 million miles of vehicle travel equalled the state's all-time low set in 1971.

However, the rate of fatal accidents of 3.5 per 100 million miles was up 1.3 per cent from 1971.

Belleville police are very busy

The number of complaints received and investigated by the Belleville Police Department last year totaled 2,544. This is an increase of 90 complaints over the 1971 year of police activities, said Police Chief Clayton (Mickie) McLaughlin.

The number of arrests made by the seven-man police force in 1972 was 1,322, which was up 500 over 1971's arrests.

Police investigations included 146 larceny complaints, 28 narcotic complaints, 50 missing persons reports, 85 disturbances runs, 40 breaking-and-entering investigations, 21 assault and battery cases, 14 fires in the city, 42 check cases, six car thefts and 74 burglar alarm calls.

In addition the police handled 46 cases involving vandalism in 1972.

Sixty-five of the reported accidents in the city occurred on business parking lots throughout the city.

Main Street led all other city arteries in the number of accidents investigated. There were 25 accidents. Huron River Drive followed with 20, Columbia Avenue with 16, the intersection of Main Street and Huron River Drive with 14, South Street with 15, Liberty Street with 10 and the intersection of Main Street and High Street with 10.

Spirit Day tops week's activities

By KAREN SCHONFELD

The highlight of last week was Spirit Day which was held on Friday. The purpose of this day was to create more school spirit for the last basketball game of the season.

A sign contest was held in which each class decorated an assigned hall any way they wanted. The winning class would be awarded a spirit plaque and $15.

Various booths sold baked goods and donuts throughout the day. Classes were dismissed after lunch to enjoy the music that the school band played and to take part in a pep assembly.

Seniors were measured Wednesday for their graduation caps and gowns. Prices were $6.50 for girls, $5.25 for the boys and 50 cents for tassel.

The date of the junior-senior dance has been changed to Tuesday, March 13. It will be held at the Sveden House, 15915 Southfield Rd., Allen Park. Tables are reserved for 6 p.m.

The price for the juniors is $3, and the lucky seniors are eating for free. The price includes dinner, dessert and a beverage.

The seniors are building up their class treasury by selling the traditional gold pins. The pins sell for $1.35.

Belleville

Bands raffle three clocks

By TOM KETCHUM

The Belleville High School Bands will raffle away three handmade clocks during the intermission of the concert tonight. The Symphony and Concert bands will provide musical selections, including "American Civil War Fantasy" by Jerry Bilik. The work is a musical representation of the pre-war period, the war itself, and the post-war period.

Tickets are available at the door for tonight's concert, and the March 28 and April 13 concerts. The concert will begin at 7:30 in the BHS auditorium.

Monday was the mass meeting for persons interested in "Mame."

The faculty advisors are well under way with plans for the show, which will be presented in May. Auditions will be held next week. Mrs. Pitcher, choir director, will direct the musical. Help will be provided by Mr. Heuer, who will conduct the orchestra, and Mr. Curtis, who will organize the stage crew.

Saturday night was the night of the Mardi Gras. Many clubs participated in the festivities this year, although there were not as many booths as there have been in past years.

Everyone had fun as high school, junior high, and alumni students contributed to the coffers of the various clubs and classes.

More and more seniors have been granted admission to colleges and universities. Stop in at the guidance office and check the list of college acceptances. It's been growing.

A STUDENT PREPARED MEAL — Some of the 40 senior citizens of Huron Township enjoy a meal prepared by the students of the home economics class at Huron Senior High School. The meal held annually provides an opportunity for students to prepare, cook and serve a class-sponsored meal.

Students cook meal for club

Forty-seven senior citizens attended a recently held dinner at Huron Senior High School which was sponsored by the high school's home economics class. The meal was the final result of first semester cooking class.

The dinner for the senior citizens provided the students with the opportunity to actually plan, cook and serve a meal for a large number of people.

The dinner has become a tradition at the high school as this is the third year of the program.

The Huron Senior Citizens Club meets every other Tuesday in the Waltz Fire Hall. New membership in the club is welcome.

Romulus

Tournament tickets to be sold on Friday

by Sue Morris

Attention, all adults and students holding season basketball tickets. District tournament tickets will go on sale Friday. This will be the only day they'll be available expressly for season ticket holders.

Members of the Senior Prom Committee are meeting this week with the hopes of choosing the band that will play at the prom to be held May 25.

Class wills, valedictorian, salutatorian, senior activities—all these and more will be contained in the 1973 Senior Supplement.

Working on the supplement, almost singlehandedly, is Debbie White who hopes it will be completed and ready to sell by May 30.

What's right with school? With all the negative things about school being emphasized so frequently, perhaps the time should be taken to look at the positive side of school.

At RHS, students have many things to be proud of. Our basketball team is ranked seventh in the Class A ratings while our wrestling team is second in the Michigan Coaches State Poll.

We have one of the finest auto labs in the state, in addition to outstanding cosmetology and electronics departments.

Another unique feature is the Romulette Room. It gives commercial foods students the opportunity to handle all phases of running a restaurant, while at the same time giving other students and teachers a break from the "tasteless" cafeteria food.

These are only a few of the many positive aspects of our school system.

Prayer day set in area

A World Day of Prayer under the sponsorship of the Sacred Dance Group of the First United Methodist Church, 417 High St., Belleville, will be held at the church at 1 p.m. Friday.

Area churches are scheduled to participate in the program and services for the community-wide prayer services.

The World Day of Prayer is observed in 168 countries under the auspices of the International Committee for the World Day of Prayer.

Romulus personals

Mrs. Margaret Joseph, leader, and Mrs. Kathy Eaton, co-leader, accompanied 31 of their Girl Scouts from St. Aloysius Troop No. 476 to Camp Linden near Fenton last weekend.

Outdoor activities included hiking and tobogganing; also playing with flying discs. The Girl Scouts gathered firewood for an indoor fireplace around which they sang songs and enjoyed a variety of games.

The next regular meeting of the Romulus Service Mothers

Club will be held Monday, at the Romulus Progressive Club Hall on Ozga Road. The get-together will get underway with pot luck supper at 6:30 p.m.

Robin Morton of Gregory, Mich. spent a few days the past week with her great grandmother, Mrs. Charles Hivley Sr. on Wayne Road. Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morton Jr.

The next regular meeting of the Ladies Missionary Group is scheduled for 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Calvary

Baptist Church on Ozga Road.

Miss Pearl Morris entertained at a birthday buffet supper Wednesday evening in honor of a nephew, Mrs. Virgil Varner of Haggerty Road. The party was held at Miss Morris' home on Huron River Drive South with family members in attendance.

The Young Couples W.S.C.S. Circle met 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Community United Methodist Church on Olive Street. The day's subject was "Koinonia Groups and Bible Study".

The 1973 4-H Awards Banquet for 4-H members of Wayne County will be held at 6:30 p.m. Monday, at the UAW Hall, 9650 So. Telegraph, Taylor, between Goddard and Wick Roads. Dr. Norm Brown, State 4-H Director, will be the speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant VanAernum of Romulus Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Bill

Krueger and son, Terry, of Romaine Street Sunday visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones of Leslie, Mich. Mrs. Jones is a sister of Mrs. Van Aernum.

The Romulus Senior Citizens attended the Home and Builders and Flower Show at Cobo Hall in Detroit on Tuesday. About 30 members participated in the outing.

Eduardo Lima, Brazilian "son" of Philip and Michele Renke, 37627 Wabash St., Romulus celebrated his 15th birthday on Feb. 18.

Joining in the festivities were the Renke children, Dave 15, Steve, 14; Janet, 11 and Julie, 5. Also grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Renke Sr. of Romulus and friends, Ray Rush, Bob, Ray, Hal and Lynn Dubisky.

Capping off the day was a telephone call from Campo Grande, Brazil, and all of Eduardo's family wishing him a happy birthday.

Eduardo will remain with the Renke family until mid-July and is attending Romulus Senior High School.

School has workshop

Getting all students "involved" in the excitement of scientific discovery was the goal of an all-day science workshop held last week at Beverly School.

Participating in the workshop were the third and fourth grade students taught by Mrs. Annie Hines.

Conceived as a pilot study, Mrs. Hines set aside a full day when the children would only be involved in a variety of science projects and assignments.

The classroom was converted to a science laboratory with individuals and groups working with microscopes, magnets, light, models and doing experiments or watching demonstrations.

Assisting with the workshop project was Mrs. Juanita Hines, a paraprofessional.

Projects such as the science workshop stimulate the children, according to Mrs. Hines. Other workshops are planned for other subject areas such as math, social studies and language arts.

The science fair planned for spring at Beverly, will feature many of the projects, exhibits and assignments worked on during the workshop.

Van Buren sets meet

A meeting for the parents of students who will be enrolling for next year's ninth grade in Van Buren Public Schools will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at North Junior High School, 47097 McBride, Belleville.

The counseling and administration staff will be present to assist in explaining the program options available to these students.

Solar Products to join chamber

Solar Machine Products Company of Romulus has joined the Romulus-Metro International Airport Chamber of Commerce.

Dolores Ristow, chamber executive director and secretary said, "Solar's membership in the Romulus Chamber of Commerce is further evidence of the business community's desire to support the activities of the chamber."

"This new membership can be attributed to the chamber's efforts in alerting the business community about what is happening and what could be done for the city."

Solar is the second major manufacturing concern to sign up with the chamber during the past month.

Kelsey-Hayes, Inc. of Romulus, recently joined the chamber.

Chamber president Richard C. Enright welcomed Solar Machine Products to the chamber, adding, "Kelsey-Hayes' membership a few weeks back was the biggest boost the chamber has had since its inception and the Solar membership will add just that much more to the chambers effectiveness in the months ahead.

"I'm hopeful many other business firms will follow the example of these two outstanding companies," he said.

Mayor Hyle Carmichael welcomed the new concern.

"Solar always has been a good citizen of the Romulus community," he said.

"I'm delighted to see the Romulus chamber making progress in capturing members of this caliber."

Solar Products moved to Romulus in 1962, building a 20,000 square foot building to house its screw manufacturing process.

Since that time, the company has expanded its operations, building additions on the original building to bring it to 85,000 square feet on a five and a half acre parcel. "We are extremely happy over our company's move to Romulus from our former location in Lincoln Park and consider it a most lucrative move in all respects," said Solar Products President Wayne Cummins.

License deadline nearing

The deadline for the use of 1972 license plates is March 31.

Car owners who fail to have 1973 license plates after midnight March 31 are subject to being ticketed by police.

To obtain new licenses car owners must have the prepared license registration form from Lansing or the car title and prior registration.

In all cases proof of insurance must be shown or an additional payment of $45 will be required, said John Barber, manager of the Belleville branch of the secretary of state's office.
